

Desert of the Mind

Rob Swift has just got his life together again after a life-altering journey through the wilds of central Australia. He has the woman of his dreams, a successful career, and a network of newfound friends. The thing that sets Rob apart is his innate capacity to see the past, the future, and his ability to move almost effortlessly through the deserts of his mind. En route to a business conference in Melbourne, he is called on once again by the sorcerer to undertake a mysterious task: find one of his people, in the city, who has fallen into trouble. Later, while using his gifts to help the police, Rob inadvertently stumbles into the mind of a psychopath, and is soon engaged in a deadly game of cat and mouse, with an adversary who possesses skills akin to his own. Desert of the Mind is the second of four novels in the Rob Swift series
